

Your pre-flight checklist:

Lynn ticks off all of the necessary components that an aviation program should offer:

- expert professors in aviation
- top-notch simulation equipment
- a diverse fleet of aircraft
- pilot's certificates
- CFR Part 141 certified
- international exposure

About Lynn

Lynn University is one of the most innovative, international and individualized small universities in America. We are a young and forward-thinking organization located alongside South Florida's booming business centers and beautiful beaches, and we are focused on one thing: preparing students for success.

Our professors concentrate on the art of teaching—making good students great and great students remarkable.

And our graduates? They've gained the intellectual flexibility and global experience to take the lead in an ever-changing world.

Destination in sight

Enhance your career opportunities with a business degree that's specially focused in aviation management.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS AND MANAGEMENT

Business Administration: Aviation Management (B.S. - Evening)

Manage the map

Going back for your bachelor's degree is easier than you might expect. At Lynn, you'll be surrounded by a group of peers who are just like you: hard-working and eager to maintain current employment while forging a path to success. Plus, our program is flexible and convenient.

- Take classes online, on campus or both. We offer an array of online and on campus coursework to help you manage your time in the best way for you.
- Your professors are always available. Whether by phone, email or office hours, our professors are committed to your success and can help you when you need them.
- Your coursework will always be manageable. We'll never load you up with more than you can handle.

A bachelor's degree in business administration will add to the business knowledge you've already earned through practical experience. And by specializing your studies in aviation management, you'll have the opportunity to gain or strengthen a set of skills very specific to the industry by studying hands-on with lessons from aircrew management to airport operations.

Studying in the evenings and online allows you to apply your lessons immediately in the workplace—an opportunity for your peers and supervisors to note your increased skill set right away. You'll find yourself fully prepared to take on more responsibility... and you may find yourself with a new role or increased pay, too.

Pack your bags...

... because once you receive your new degree, you'll certainly be going places. The B.S. in Business Administration will make you marketable to companies of all sizes and industries. Your added specialization in aviation management provides a coveted degree that prepares you for a wealth of specialized roles beyond just piloting—now you're qualified for localized business roles, too.

- air traffic controller
- private or commercial pilot
- human resources specialist
- corporate manager
- information specialist

On the horizon

You've gotten a long way in your career without a bachelor's degree—but imagine how much further a specialized degree in aviation management can take you. Graduates of this program have achieved successful careers in an impressive array of businesses, including:

- LaGuardia airport authority
- Atlanta Hartsfield airport authority
- Delta Air Lines
- American Airlines
- Gulfstream
- Embraer
- Air Cargo, Inc.

Deploy the landing gear

Dean Jeff Johnson is happy to answer any questions you may have about the aviation management specialization available for the B.S. in Business Administration. Call or email him at 561-237-7333 or jjohnson@lynn.edu.
