Learn more about yourself and others

Why do we behave in certain ways? How can we change?
How can we more effectively interact with others?

Through hands-on learning, you'll grasp the foundational concepts of psychology and the art of counseling while you work with community psychologists and agencies.

You'll work alongside Lynn's full-time professors—award-winning researchers and licensed clinicians—who will teach you to evaluate, analyze and think critically about human behavior.

You'll attend professional conferences and present your own research projects. You can even study abroad to gain a real-life, cross-cultural experience.

We don't just teach the social and global experience at Lynn.
We live it.
