COLLEGE OF BUSINESS AND MANAGEMENT

Financial Valuation and Investment Management
(MBA specialization)

It's a personal investment

The financial valuation and investment management specialization is ideal for students looking to become experts in portfolio management, macro level investment management, behavioral finance, investment theory and more. You'll study quantitative and accounting approaches, while also paying particular attention to new branches of investment management that look at human behavior and market factors. You'll even learn about succession planning—a topic rarely taught elsewhere.

You'll study with your peers and professors on an iPad mini (provided to you by Lynn that you keep after graduation) to make sure you get the most out of your education. And if you study on campus, you'll take classes in our brand new International Business Center, designed specifically with business students in mind.

MBA at Lynn coursework is offered in accelerated 8-week terms, allowing you to complete your degree in as little as one year.
