

Be a part of the community

The public administration degree program can help you achieve a career in management for a government, nonprofit or community organization. In the M.P.A. program, you'll study topics such as economic development, privatization, regulatory and public policy, government ethics and more.

With Lynn's iPad-powered learning you can take courses conveniently online. And, you can earn your M.P.A. in as little as one year.

What you'll learn in the M.P.A. program

- Public budgeting and finance
- Public personnel and human resources management
- Economic development, privatization and regulatory policy

“At Lynn, we give students an experiential education. Education isn’t something that only happens within four walls.”

Mark Luttio, College of Arts and Sciences, professor
